Aboard Herbert Hoover's Special
Train Enroute to Palo Alto, Calif., Nov. 3.—Herbert Hoover's special train was speeding today across Kansas, through the heart of the wheat belt, carrying the republican presidential candidate to Pueblo, Colo.,
where he will break his westward journey again for his fourth and last speech on his way home.

Early today, while Hoover still was sleeping, the train crossed from "doubtful" Missouri into Kansas.

The trip across the home state of Senator Charles Curtis, Hoover's running mate, will be broken for several five minute stops today, where the candidate will greet the voters.

Stops are scheduled at Wagstaff at 6:15, Lomax at 7:25, Council Grove at 8:45, Gypsum City at 10:05, Hoisington at 12:05, Osgood at 12:45, Scott City at 2:05, Selkirk at 2:45 and Horace at 3:05. The route does not take Hoover through Kansas City.

One more stop will be made before Pueblo, at Ordway at 5:45. Arrival in Pueblo is scheduled for 7 o'clock.

There in the home city of Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee, Hoover will address the people of Colorado and the mountain states over a radio hook-up.

The republican candidate received an enthusiastic ovation from a crowd of 10,000 which packed St.
Louis' Coliseum last night to hear the major address of his western trip,
a final appeal for the farm support.

A sizeable crowd cheered him as he stepped from the train into his automobile but the numbers and enthusiasm of people along the streets
did not compare with the crowds which greeted Governor Smith a few weeks ago, according to those who were present on both occasions.

Along the main thoroughfares to the Coliseum, there was a thin scattering line of people and occasionally small crowds at street corners which cheered as the automobile bearing Hoover went by.

But there were no massed crowds
except at the door of the Coliseum.
The route the candidate's car took had not been announced in advance, it was explained. The streets were almost deserted on the return trip.

The crowd in the Coliseum, however, was enthusiastic enough to please any candidate and Hoover had to begin several times before he could still the uproar.

Hoover said he hoped the December short session of congress would solve the farm question but added that "if this is not possible, I would call a special session in order that we might speedily arrive at a determination of the question before the next harvest."

Hoover's speech was pointed mainly at the farm and business element of the west. Dealing with problems he said were clearly in the realm of the federal government, Hoover outlined several ideas, more specific than hitherto, for coping with farm relief.

He expressed himself in favor of completion of the great three-fold
"Mississippi system" of inland waterways, joining the gulf, the Great Lakes and the sea via the St. Lawrence, with laterals feeding into this great chain. Such a system, he said, would be of great benefit both to the farmer and to midwestern business.

He proposed formation of a federal farm board to aid farmers with government assistance, but leaving their business within their own control. Further, he advocated "regulation" of public utilities but "objected" to the "government going into business in competition with its own citizens."

Hoover took as his theme the fields
into which government should enter.
This contrasted with his recent New York speech in which he labelled as "state socialism." Gov. Smith's proposals for government action on the liquor question, farm relief and waterways.

The government, he held, must deal with "great undertakings in public works, such as inland water-

IMPENDING HUGE OIL MERGER OF SINCLAIR INTERESTS

rumors, Sinclair is to acquire

ARE FIRM IN BELIEF WOMAN WAS MURDERED

CORONER OF LAKE BLUFF, ILL.,
TO X-RAY SKULL OF MISS
ELFRIEDA KNAAK

TO SUBSTANTIATE BELIEF SHE WAS CLUBBED AND THRUST INTO FURNACE

Lake Bluff, Ill., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—
Firm in the belief that Miss Elfrieda Knaak was murdered, John L. Taylor, coroner of Lake county, today prepared to X-ray the skull to substantiate his belief she was clubbed and then forced into the Lake Bluff police station furnace.

"I have reason to believe she was struck in the back of the neck," Taylor said but refused to go into details.

George Hargraves, private detective investigating the burning, however, told the United Press that he had discovered a depression on the back of Miss Knaak's neck that led him to believe she had been hit with a red hot iron bar or an instrument of similar nature.

Miss Knaak died yesterday in the Alice Home Hospital in Lake Forest
after lingering in a semi-delirious state for three days. She was found Tuesday morning in the basement of the police station, nude and with her legs, arms, shoulders and head burned almost to the bone.

The theory that Miss Knaak attempted suicide has been discarded
by authorities.

It now is believed that some person, through jealousy or other unexplained motives, trapped her in the station Monday night as she waited for Charles Hitchcock, her "mental" sweetheart, tried to kill her and dispose of her body in the furnace. It further is believed that this unknown person was interrupted in the fiendish work and fled.

Funeral services for Miss Knaak will be held Monday.

GRAF ZEPPELIN OFFICERS, CREW TO MEET HINDENBURG

Berlin, Nov. 3. (U.P.)—Dr. Hugo
Eckener, commander of the Graf
Zeppelin on the great airship's round trip from Germany to the United States, made ready today for a formal reception to his officers and crew by President von Hindenburg.

After the Zeppelin pioneers have sailed their craft to the mooring mast on the outskirts of the city,
they plan to visit von Hindenburg.

Mail reports showed that the Graf Zeppelin carried 65,000 letters and postcards to the United States, and that more than 100, 000 were brought to Germany from the United States.

Postal authorities estimated they had received $75,000 in receipts from the Zeppelin's mail and they announced that the amount would be credited to the Graf Zeppelin.

ways, flood control, reclamation,
highways and public buildings.
Dealing with the inland waterways proposal, Hoover envisaged a system of 12,000 miles of "most essential transportation connecting 20 states with the gulf on one hand and with the north Atlantic on the other."

The three trunk lines would link
the gulf at New Orleans via St. Louis and Chicago with the lakes and the northern boundaries of the country;
join Pittsburgh with St. Louis and Kansas City; and open a shipway through the St. Lawrence to the sea.

He said the $100,000,000 expenditure hitherto made was "money well spent" and he advocated completing the project "at the earliest possible moment."

President Coolidge Virtually Predicts Win for Republican National Ticket Tuesday

WIRES FORECAST TO HERBERT HOOVER LAST EVENING

COOLIDGE SAYS "YOUR SUCCESS IN CAMPAIGN SEEMS ASSURED"

THE FIRST FORMAL STATEMENT
MADE BY PRESIDENT SINCE CAMPAIGN OPENED

Washington, Nov. 3. (U.P.)—
President Coolidge virtually predicted victory for the republican national ticket in a telegram to Herbert Hoover last night after the republican presidential nominee's St.
Louis speech, in which the president said "Your success in the campaign seems assured."

The telegram was made public by the White House and was the first formal statement Mr. Coolidge has issued since the campaign opened.
Throughout it he has maintained silence, although it had been expected
he would make one or two speeches on behalf of Hoover. The telegram, therefore, came as a surprise.

The president lauded Hoover's campaign efforts and declared he had shown his "fitness to be president."
The text of the telegram follows:
"Hon. Herbert Hoover,
"St. Louis, Missouri,
"I have just heard your St. Louis speech with great satisfaction. It is the concluding address of a series which have disclosed a breadth of information, a maturity of thought, and a soundness of conclusion on public questions never surpassed in a previous presidential campaign."

"You have had the knowledge and judgment which enabled you to tell the people the truth. You have been clear, candid and courteous, demonstrating your faith in the people and your consciousness that the truth has a power and conclusiveness of its own which is always supreme."

"All the nation has only made more plain the wisdom of the plans you have proposed for solving our political, economic and social problems. You have shown your fitness to be president."

"I wish to congratulate you on the high quality of your leadership.
You are able, experienced, trustworthy and safe. Your success in the campaign seems assured and I shall turn over the great office of president of the United States of America to your keeping, sure that it will be in competent hands in which the welfare of the people will be secure."

"Calvin Coolidge."

HOOVER-SMITH CAMPAIGN LISTED AS EXPENSIVE

REPORTS OF 2 PARTIES SHOW
AGGREGATE COLLECTIONS
OF NEARLY $9,000,000

AND THE MONEY ON NOV. 1 WAS
ALL SPENT EXCEPT SMALL
BALANCE

Washington, Nov. 3. (U.P.)—The Hoover-Smith campaign was listed today as apparently a $12,000,000 contest, the most expensive in American history.

Reports of the democratic and republican national committee to the clerk of the house and the house campaign funds committee showed aggregate contributions and collections of nearly $9,000,000. And the money on Nov. 1, was all spent except for balances of a few thousand dollars each.

In addition, the separate expenditures of state and local organizations of the Anti-Saloon League, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the Cannon anti-Smith movement, and the national committees expenses for the final week of the campaign are expected to bring the total to $12,000,000 or more.

Both parties have surpassed their early campaign estimates. The republican committee has received $4,911,744 in contributions and spent $4,774,361. The democratic committee has borrowed $1,000,000
and collected approximately $3,000, 000 in contributions.

Chairman Raskob of the democratic committee spent more than $1,000,000 in the last week of October, most of it going to state committees.

NO RECEPTION FOR MRS. WILLEBRANDT

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—
No reception was held for Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general, when she returned to southern California today for the purpose of casting her vote for Herbert Hoover and delivering four political speeches in advocating his election.

Only half a dozen newspaper reporters, the publicity representative of the Union Pacific railroad over which she traveled and her parents were at the station to greet her.

Calshot, Eng., Nov. 3. (U.P.)— Flight Lieutenant d'Arcy Greig was reaching a speed of 345 miles an hour driving his racing seaplane

in a final trial flight today.

The flight, which lasted about 22 minutes, was preparatory to an attempt to break the world's speed record.

Greig now awaits authorization of the air ministry to make his attempt at the world speed mark.

MT. AETNA IS AGAIN ERUPTING, QUAKES PRECEDING

Catania, Sicily, Nov. 3. (U.P.)—
Mt. Aetna resumed violent eruptions today after a calm night.
A mild earthquake preceded the eruption.

A new eruptive month was opened between Monte Frumento and Pizzo Dineni, emitting four streams of molten lava. One stream was flowing toward the village of Santalio-Giarre.

Aetna began its latest activity
last night, when a spectacular eruption occurred. The flow of lava subsided, however, after a display of fireworks. Mild earthquakes were felt, but no damage.

Aetna is one of the world's best-known volcanoes. Catania, the ancient city at its base, probably has suffered more from earthquakes and eruptions than any other inhabited spot on the globe. In the late 17th century the city was almost destroyed, and it has been visited with many eruptions since. More than 80 eruptions of Aetna have been recorded.

PEOPLE WILL DECIDE ISSUES NEXT TUESDAY

TAKE CAMPAIGN OUT OF THE
HANDS OF PROFESSIONAL
POLITICIANS

COUNT LESS IN THIS ELECTION

Following is the second of a series of articles on the presidential election. The articles are written by Raymond Clapper,
United Press staff correspondent
who has just finished a tour of every state in the Union.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Boston, Nov. 3.—From one end of the country to the other every indication is that the people have taken this campaign out of the hands of professional politicians and are preparing to decide it themselves next Tuesday.

Popular feeling has been aroused
so generally because of prohibition and religion that party organization and the painstaking drudgery of ward leaders and precinct captains
are likely to count less in this election than is usually the case. Everywhere professional politicians are bewildered by the numbers which have been aroused.

The fight has passed out of the hands of candidates and party workers to a large extent. Hoover and Smith and their supporting batteries of stump speakers are about to wind up the campaign with a spectacular and deafening barrage of argument.
Ward leaders and precinct captains
are organizing their election day workers and arranging machinery to get their voters to the polls.

But the interest of the voters is so tremendous that such preparations seem superfluous except where they are concerned with protecting party rights at the polls and supervising the count.

In 1924 a grand total of 29,000, 000 votes was cast. This year it will be 35,000,000 to 40,000,000.
Massachusetts' registration has gone up an average of 22 per cent.

Almost every other state shows a considerable increase. Election officials are worried lest the rush of voters overtax facilities. Usually the problem is to get out the voters.
This year the problem is to take care of them.

Some believe this interest will result in more alert watching at the polls with a consequent reduction in irregularities. In some southern states republicans will have watchers at the polls for the first time in years.

"We have been assured that every Smith vote will be counted," one Philadelphia democrat told the United Press correspondent recently in an elated manner which indicated that this assurance of a fair count constituted an unusual victory. In the same way a Hoover dry leader in North Carolina said Hoover would get credit for all votes cast for him there, which was more, he said, than had always been the case.

On the whole this election may be expected to represent the most direct and most complete expression of the

FRAME HOUSES UNDER CON-

WERE SHAKEN DOWN

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—
Slight earthquake tremors shook North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee shortly after 11 P. M., EST
last night.

No serious damage was done in the shaken district, a triangle about 350 miles long at the base and extending 100 miles to its apex. The walls of a thirteen-story building here were cracked and floors were opened in several places.

Several frame houses under construction in Johnson City, were shaken down and window panes were shattered in nearly all of the affected cities.

Residents at Johnson City called police headquarters for aid believing robbers were attempting to enter their houses.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 3.—Houses trembled and windows rattled here at 10 o'clock last night, rousing scores to inquire of newspapers if it were an earthquake.

Bogota, Colombia, Nov. 3.—A destructive earthquake occurred in the department of Boyaca on Thursday.

Great damage and loss of life was reported today in delayed dispatches from the interior.

The number of dead was not known, because of delay in getting reports from distant villages. The town of Tibrita was almost destroyed. Frightened inhabitants of Tibana took refuge in the church and it collapsed, killing six.

The principal buildings in the town of Garagoa were reported in ruins.

Boyaca is in the interior of Col-

FATHER TO AID IN DEFENSE OF YOUTH IN 2 'FUN SLAYINGS'

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—Colonel James A. Gallogly, father of Richard Gray Gallogly, charged with two "fun slayings" here, will assist in defense of the youth when he goes on trial for murder, it was learned today.

Col. Gallogly, who is divorced from his son's mother, is a retired army officer and a member of the Georgia bar. He at present is living in Miami, Fla.

The "fun slaying" case had shown no new developments beyond this today, although the coming trial is likely to be a battle of alienists, from the trend of defense and prosecution plans.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin plans to have alienists examine the two youths, in an effort to prove the two college boys were sane.

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—William

of the treasury made public here today.

McAdoo broke his campaign silence in a telegram to Thomas J. Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle.

The text of the telegram, made public by Hamilton, read:

"Thomas J. Hamilton, Augusta, Ga.

KLANCKE SUCCEEDS GEORGE WEAVER

St. Paul, Nov. 3. (U.P.)—Albert C. Klancke, St. Paul, deputy commissioner of fish and game since 1927, today was appointed supervisor of fisheries by George W. McCullough, state game and fish commissioner. Klancke succeeds George Weaver, formerly of Brainerd, resigned.

17-YEAR-OLD STUDENT ADMITS STRANGLING 15-YEAR-OLD GIRL

Port Richmond, N. Y., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—Vincent Rice, a 17-year-old student, confessed today that he had strangled to death pretty 15-year-old Alice Joost because she resented his advances.

The girl's body was found by her mother, Mrs. Lucia Joost, last night. Rice had "kept company" with the girl since last June.

HOOVER-SMITH CAMPAIGN LISTED AS EXPENSIVE

REPORTS OF 2 PARTIES SHOW
AGGREGATE COLLECTIONS
OF NEARLY $9,000,000

AND THE MONEY ON NOV. 1 WAS
ALL SPENT EXCEPT SMALL
BALANCE

Washington, Nov. 3. (U.P.)—The Hoover-Smith campaign was listed today as apparently a $12,000,000 contest, the most expensive in American history.

Reports of the democratic and republican national committee to the clerk of the house and the house campaign funds committee showed aggregate contributions and collections of nearly $9,000,000. And the money on Nov. 1 was all spent except for balances of a few thousand dollars each.

In addition, the separate expenditures of state and local organizations, the Anti-Saloon League, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the Cannon anti-Smith movement, and the national committees' expenses for the final week of the campaign are expected to bring the total to $12,000,000 or more.

Both parties have surpassed their early campaign estimates. The republican committee has received $4,911,744 in contributions and spent $4,774,361. The democratic committee has borrowed $1,000,000 and collected approximately $3,000,000 in contributions.

Chairman Raskob of the democratic committee spent more than $1,000,000 in the last week of October, most of it going to state committees.

NO RECEPTION FOR MRS. WILLEBRANDT

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—No reception was held for Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general, when she returned to southern California today for the purpose of casting her vote for Herbert Hoover and delivering four political speeches in advocating his election.

Only half a dozen newspaper reporters, the publicity representative of the Union Pacific railroad over which she traveled and her parents were at the station to greet her.

SILAS URDAHL CHAMPION CORN HUSKER OF N. W.

LITCHFIELD MAN PICKED 1,243.2
POUNDS CORN IN 1 HOUR
20 MINUTES

DEFEATED SCORE OF VETERAN
HUSKERS IN ANNUAL COM-PETITION YESTERDAY

Windom, Minn., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—Silas Urdahl, 23-year-old farmer of near Litchfield, Minn., today was the champion corn husker of the northwest.

Urdahl, picking 1,243.2 pounds of corn in one hour and 20 minutes for a near record, defeated a score of veteran huskers in their annual competition here yesterday. During the contest the champion wore out three pairs of gloves, picked off and husked an ear of corn every second and kept up a constant barrage of golden ears against the side-board of his fast moving wagon.

Nels Peterson, Butterfield, Minn., placed second with 1,199 pounds and Ernest Fitzgerald, Fairbault county, was third with 1,181 pounds. Bert Hanson, Nicollet county, last year's champion, was content with seventh place with 1,046 pounds.

About 500 farmers attended the contest.

GRAVE FEARS FELT FOR SAFETY OF TWO PILOTS

San Francisco, Nov. 3. (U.P.)—Grave fears were felt early today for the safety of two pilots and three passengers, one of them a woman, who left Corning, Calif., at 7:15 last night on a San Francisco-bound airplane and have not been seen since they passed over Chico, two hours later.

Three of the passengers believed aboard the plane are H. Putnam, Portland, C. R. Adams, Portland, and Miss Mildred Devitt, Seattle.

The plane took off Corning in a heavy storm. It was bucking heavy winds and flying through thick rain clouds when sighted over Chico, 25 miles away.

IS CREDITED WITH PLANE SPEED 345 MILES AN HOUR

Calshot, Eng., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—Flight Lieutenant d'Arcy Greig was credited unofficially with reaching a speed of 345 miles an hour driving his racing seaplane in a final trial flight today.

The flight, which lasted about 22 minutes, was preparatory to an attempt to break the world's speed record.

Greig now awaits authorization of the air ministry to make his attempt at the world speed mark.

MT. AETNA IS AGAIN ERUPTING, QUAKES PRECEDING

Catania, Sicily, Nov. 3. (U.P.)—Mt. Aetna resumed violent eruptions today after a calm night. A mild earthquake preceded the eruption.

A new eruptive month was opened between Monte Frumento and Pizzo Dineh, emitting four streams of molten lava. One stream was flowing toward the village of Santalio-Giarre.

Aetna began its latest activity last night, when a spectacular eruption occurred. The flow of lava subsided, however, after a display of fireworks. Mild earthquakes were felt, but no damage.

Aetna is one of the world's best-known volcanoes. Catania, the ancient city at its base, probably has suffered more from earthquakes and eruptions than any other inhabited spot on the globe. In the late 17th century the city was almost destroyed, and it has been visited with many eruptions since. More than 80 eruptions of Aetna have been recorded.

TAKE CAMPAIGN OUT OF THE
HANDS OF PROFESSIONAL
POLITICIANS

ELECTION

Following is the second of a series of articles on the presidential election. The articles are written by Raymond Clapper, United Press staff correspondent who has just finished a tour of every state in the Union.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Boston, Nov. 3.—From one end of the country to the other every indication is that the people have taken this campaign out of the hands of professional politicians and are preparing to decide it themselves next Tuesday.

Popular feeling has been aroused so generally because of prohibition and religion that party organization and the painstaking drudgery of ward leaders and precinct captains are likely to count less in this election than is usually the case. Everywhere professional politicians are bewildered by the numbers which have been aroused.

The fight has passed out of the hands of candidates and party workers to a large extent. Hoover and Smith and their supporting batteries of stump speakers are about to wind up the campaign with a spectacular and deafening barrage of argument. Ward leaders and precinct captains are organizing their election day workers and arranging machinery to get their voters to the polls.

But the interest of the voters is so tremendous that such preparations seem superfluous except where they are concerned with protecting party rights at the polls and supervising the count.

In 1924 a grand total of 29,000,000 votes was cast. This year it will be 35,000,000 to 40,000,000. Massachusetts' registration has gone up an average of 22 per cent.

Almost every other state shows a considerable increase. Election officials are worried lest the rush of voters overtax facilities. Usually the problem is to get out the voters. This year the problem is to take care of them.

Some believe this interest will result in more alert watching at the polls with a consequent reduction in irregularities. In some southern states republicans will have watchers at the polls for the first time in years.

"We have been assured that every Smith vote will be counted," one Philadelphia democrat told the United Press correspondent recently in an elated manner which indicated that this assurance of a fair count constituted an unusual victory. In the same way a Hoover dry leader in North Carolina said Hoover would get credit for all votes cast for him there, which was more, he said, than had always been the case.

On the whole this election may be expected to represent the most direct and most complete expression of the

NORTH CAROLINA, TENNESSEE AND VIRGINIA SHOCKED

NO SERIOUS DAMAGE REPORTED
IN THE AREA AFFECTED
BY TREMORS

FRAME HOUSES UNDER CON-STRUCTION IN JOHNSON, N. C.,
WERE SHAKEN DOWN

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—Slight earthquake tremors shook North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee shortly after 11 P. M. EST last night.

No serious damage was done in the shaken district, a triangle about 350 miles long at the base and extending 100 miles to its apex. The walls of a thirteen-story building here were cracked and floors were opened in several places.

Several frame houses under construction in Johnson City, were shaken down and window panes were shattered in nearly all of the affected cities.

Residents at Johnson City called police headquarters for aid believing robbers were attempting to enter their houses.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 3.—Houses trembled and windows rattled here at 10 o'clock last night, rousing scores to inquire of newspapers if it were an earthquake.

Bogota, Colombia, Nov. 3.—A destructive earthquake occurred in the department of Boyaca on Thursday.

Great damage and loss of life was reported today in delayed dispatches from the interior.

The number of dead was not known, because of delay in getting reports from distant villages. The town of Tibrita was almost destroyed. Frightened inhabitants of Tibana took refuge in the church and it collapsed, killing six.

The principal buildings in the town of Garagoa were reported in ruins.

Boyaca is in the interior of Colombia, adjoining the capital.

FATHER TO AID IN DEFENSE OF YOUTH IN 2 'FUN SLAYINGS'

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—Colonel James A. Gallogly, father of Richard Gray Gallogly, charged with two "fun slayings" here, will assist in defense of the youth when he goes on trial for murder, it was learned today.

Col. Gallogly, who is divorced from his son's mother, is a retired army officer and a member of the Georgia bar. He at present is living in Miami, Fla.

The "fun slaying" case had shown no new developments beyond this today, although the coming trial is likely to be a battle of alienists, from the trend of defense and prosecution plans.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin plans to have alienists examine the two youths, in an effort to prove the two college boys were sane.

MCADOO TO SUPPORT DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 3. (U.P.)—William G. McAdoo will support the democratic national ticket, according to a telegram from the former secretary of the treasury made public here today.

McAdoo broke his campaign silence in a telegram to Thomas J. Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle.

The text of the telegram, made public by Hamilton, read:

"Thomas J. Hamilton, Augusta, Ga. 'Replying to your telegram I am absolutely opposed to Gov. Smith's position on prohibition and the 18th amendment, but I shall preserve my party allegiance. Am making same reply to similar inquiries from Stovall (editor Savannah, Ga. Press)."

"W. G. McAdoo, Los Angeles, Calif." American people in the history of the nation—marred only by the fact that bigotry and prejudice have played such an important part in the contest.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT—Inserted by and for A. G. Anderson, Brainerd, for which regular rates are paid.

To the Voters of 1st, 4th and 5th Wards of Brainerd

The office of County Commissioner is an important one. The responsibility is great, and it is becoming greater each year. During my 8 years as commissioner the county has:

Built, furnished and entirely PAID for the New Court House. Finished payments on old Court House.

Built and fully PAID for steel and concrete bridge across the Mississippi.

Adopted a program to put Crow Wing County entirely OUT of DEBT by 1930.

Established a modern system of continuous road maintenance of 165 miles of White Line Roads.

Built and fully PAID for 82 miles of Modern Roads.

I cite the above statements to give you an idea of the responsibility involved, so I can ask you this question: Will not the public be better served by continuing to entrust this important work to one who has had experience?

Since assuming the office, it has been my constant endeavor to conduct it fairly, faithfully and efficiently. It is a custom of long standing, in this county, to reward with re-election officials who have rendered satisfactory service. I believe my endeavor has been successful enough to justify a claim to the benefit of that custom. Should you be one who may doubt the soundness of that claim, I know you nevertheless want to be fair, and therefore, ask you this question: Wherein have I failed?

I am most grateful for the expression of confidence accorded me at the primary election. If I am successful at the general election, I will exert every effort to merit that confidence.

Yours very truly,

A. G. ANDERSON

OLD SHAKER COLONY FINALLY DIES OUT

Last Surviving Member Passes Away in Ohio.

Lebanon, Ohio.—The once famous and prosperous Shaker colony at New Union, near here, has passed into history with the death of its director and last survivor, James F. Fennessey.

Organized in 1805, the colony of religious communists prospered and grew to an enrollment of 3,000 members owning 4,500 acres of land in the latter part of the last century. Since then, however, membership has steadily dwindled.

Marriage did not exist in the colony. The only additions to the membership were by conversion to the faith. The belief was said to have originated in England, though the parent organization in the United States was the Shaker colony at Lebanon, N. Y.

Fennessey, born in Cincinnati in 1852, joined the colony in 1882. At that time the colony was extraordinarily prosperous, but later came into desperate straits. Officers came from the parent colony and placed Fennessey at the helm as director. He took the leadership at a time when the colony faced an indebtedness of approximately $160,000. He brought the colony out of debt and established resources well over $500,000.

Fennessey continued at the head of the colony, but members tired of the life and drifted away. He himself, in the latter years of his life, said the communist idea had many disadvantages, especially because of the Shakers' belief in regard to marriage. The greatest disadvantage of the life was the lack of any incentive for individual attainment, he said.

In 1912 the United Brethren church bought the property for approximately $350,000 and established a children's and old people's home. The provision was made, however, that any Shakers residing there at the time might live at the colony the remainder of their lives. By 1920 all but five had left and all except Fennessey departed in that year.

A layer of interlaced and matted nerves on the inside surface of the back part of the eyeball does the seeing. This is called the retina, which means network. To the Voters of 1st, 4th and 5th Wards of Brainerd

The office of County Commissioner is an important one. The responsibility is great, and it is becoming greater each year. During my 8 years as commissioner the county has:

Built, furnished and entirely PAID for the New Court House. Finished payments on old Court House.

Built and fully PAID for steel and concrete bridge across the Mississippi.

Adopted a program to put Crow Wing County entirely OUT of DEBT by 1930.

Established a modern system of continuous road maintenance of 165 miles of White Line Roads.

Built and fully PAID for 82 miles of Modern Roads.

I cite the above statements to give you an idea of the responsibility involved, so I can ask you this question: Will not the public be better served by continuing to entrust this important work to one who has had experience?

Since assuming the office, it has been my constant endeavor to conduct it fairly, faithfully and efficiently. It is a custom of long standing, in this county, to reward with re-election officials who have rendered satisfactory service. I believe my endeavor has been successful enough to justify a claim to the benefit of that custom. Should you be one who may doubt the soundness of that claim, I know you nevertheless want to be fair, and therefore, ask you this question: Wherein have I failed?

I am most grateful for the expression of confidence accorded me at the primary election. If I am successful at the general election, I will exert every effort to merit that confidence.

Yours very truly,

A. G. ANDERSON

OLD SHAKER COLONY FINALLY DIES OUT

Last Surviving Member Passes Away in Ohio.

Lebanon, Ohio.—The once famous and prosperous Shaker colony at New Union, near here, has passed into history with the death of its director and last survivor, James F. Fennessey.

Organized in 1805, the colony of religious communists prospered and grew to an enrollment of 3,000 members owning 4,500 acres of land in the latter part of the last century. Since then, however, membership has steadily dwindled.

Marriage did not exist in the colony. The only additions to the membership were by conversion to the faith. The belief was said to have originated in England, though the parent organization in the United States was the Shaker colony at Lebanon, N. Y.

Fennessey, born in Cincinnati in 1852, joined the colony in 1882. At that time the colony was extraordinarily prosperous, but later came into desperate straits. Officers came from the parent colony and placed Fennessey at the helm as director. He took the leadership at a time when the colony faced an indebtedness of approximately $100,000. He brought the colony out of debt and established resources well over $500,000.

Fennessey continued at the head of the colony, but members tired of the life and drifted away. He himself, in the latter years of his life, said the communist idea had many disadvantages, especially because of the Shakers' belief in regard to marriage. The greatest disadvantage of the life was the lack of any incentive for individual attainment, he said.

In 1912 the United Brethren church bought the property for approximately $350,000 and established a children's and old people's home. The provision was made, however, that any Shakers residing there at the time might live at the colony the remainder of their lives. By 1920 all but five had left and all except Fennessey departed in that year.

Can You Look About?

When you wake up in the morning can you clearly, honestly, without evasion of self-deceit, face the facts in your life? Can you look forward toward what you expect to do without shame or fear or doubt? If there is real contentment in this world it comes from this ability to face all the facts and to proceed calmly without any make-believe.—Grove Patterson, in the Mobile Register.

GOVERNOR SMITH WRITING FINAL CAMPAIGN SPEECH

WILL DELIVER IT TONIGHT IN MADISON SQUARE GARDEN RALLY

HIS FRIENDS EXPECT HIS PRO-NOUNCEMENTS TO ROCK
THE RAFTERS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Nov. 3.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith sat down today to write his final campaign speech. He will deliver it tonight in Madison Square Garden at a rally which his friends expect will rock the rafters.

The speech is to be a final summation of his case before the American jury goes out to bring in the verdict.

Monday night he will broadcast the usual appeal to get out the vote, but he does not intend to bring up the campaign unless some development makes it necessary.

Between the speeches he will be engaged busily with his campaign managers at his hotel here, threshing out the final matters of the campaign, handling everything personally, just as he has done from the start.

The democratic presidential nominee appears to be confident of the outcome. His managers everywhere have given him optimistic reports and he believes, as he says, "There seems to be something in the air."

The vast crowds he has met and the reception of his speeches, together with the underground reports which are coming in daily from the outlying states, have combined to make him believe he has an excellent chance to win.

His reception in Brooklyn last night strengthened that impression in his mind. He unburdened himself of some of the restrictions which have been noticeable in some of his earlier addresses and talked like the "Al Smith that New York knows."

While the address was based upon an appeal for the democratic state ticket, the governor did not overlook his presidential opponent, Herbert Hoover, and the national campaign. He drew the biggest applause when he said there would be no chance for Hoover to appoint a prohibition commission because he intended to be elected and handle that problem himself by carrying it to the people.

The governor closed with a dramatic appeal for the state ticket in the following words:

"I am going through a national campaign. I am fighting some pretty bright men. They have plenty of brains and they have a great deal of money. We are within two days of election. Have you ever heard from the lips of any mortal man a single suggestion about the government of this state under me? He can't do it."

"The democratic office holders in Albany are giving to the people of this state a constructive, a forward-looking, a wise, a capable and an economical administration of their affairs. They have paid attention to the humn side as well as to the business side—and that human side is the great side of government. When I leave Albany, no matter what happens to me, I want to see that preserved as I worked day and night to build it up."

ARRIVE IN CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bane Complete
Journey to Their Winter Home
at Santa Ana

After bucking unseasonal wind and snow storms, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bane, Brainerd residents, arrived at Santa Ana, Calif., where they will spend the winter.

Mr. Bane in requesting renewal of his paper writes the following interesting letter to the Brainerd Dispatch:

"We had a very nice trip out. We were just ahead of a bad wind at Pueblo where the autoists had to seek shelter wherever they could and some of them were almost blown off the road. And a day after we left Colorado Springs they had a bad storm that marooned many autos and one woman beat her way through and sent back help for the rest of them. The papers said she was quite a heroine as the snow was falling so thick and fast that they all got off the road."

"Then when we got to Ash Fork the outgoing autoists said there was a foot of snow on the peak of the divide so we turned south and went through Phoenix called up the Michaels and they came down to the hotel and we had a nice visit. They are looking well and doing fine and think there is no place like Arizona."

"We were able to get a large cottage furnished through friends here. We have roses, grapefruit, oranges and walnut trees in the yard and the sweet peas are about a foot high, also many other shrubs and flowers. Was able to get a winter membership in the Country club. They have a wonderful clubhouse, serve fine meals and fine Sunday dinners. They also have many social affairs and dances. It is really a social center."

It is believed that the catapa tree got its name through association with the Catawba Indians, since Europeans first found the catapa in the region occupied by these Indians.

His reception in Brooklyn last night strengthened that impression in his mind. He unburdened himself of some of the restrictions which have been noticeable in some of his earlier addresses and talked like the "Al Smith that New York knows."

While the address was based upon an appeal for the democratic state ticket, the governor did not overlook his presidential opponent, Herbert Hoover, and the national campaign. He drew the biggest applause when he said there would be no chance for Hoover, to appoint a prohibition commission because he intended to be elected and handle that problem himself by carrying it to the people.

The governor closed with a dramatic appeal for the state ticket in the following words:

"I am going through a national campaign. I am fighting some pretty bright men. They have plenty of brains and they have a great deal of money. We are within two days of election. Have you ever heard from the lips of any mortal man a single suggestion about the government of this state under me? He can't do it."

ARRIVE IN CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bane Complete
Journey to Their Winter Home
at Santa Ana

After bucking unseasonal wind and snow storms, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bane, Brainerd residents, arrived at Santa Ana, Calif., where they will spend the winter.

Mr. Bane in requesting renewal of his paper writes the following interesting letter to the Brainerd Dispatch:

"We had a very nice trip out. We were just ahead of a bad wind at Pueblo where the autoists had to seek shelter wherever they could and some of them were almost blown off the road. And a day after we left Colorado Springs they had a bad storm that marooned many autos and one woman beat her way through and sent back help for the rest of them. The papers said she was quite a heroine as the snow was falling so thick and fast that they all got off the road."

"Then when we got to Ash Fork the outgoing autoists said there was a foot of snow on the peak of the divide so we turned south and went through Phoenix called up the Michaels and they came down to the hotel and had a nice visit. They are looking well and doing fine and think there is no place like Arizona."

"We were able to get a large complete furnished cottage through friends here. We have roses, grapefruit, oranges and walnut trees in the yard and the sweet peas are about a foot high, also many other shrubs and flowers. Was able to get a winter membership in the Country club. They have a wonderful clubhouse, serve fine meals and fine Sunday dinners. They also have many social affairs and dances. It is really a social center."

YALE COLLEGE PRESIDENT FAVORS HOOVER

JAMES R. ANGELL, president of Yale college, favors Hoover. A letter from Mr. Angell to Prof. Charles M. Bakewell of the University, states the views of the president. It is an open letter and a copy was sent to the Brainerd Dispatch by Fred Merritt.

Fred Merritt is well known to the older residents of Brainerd. He is a nephew of C. F. Kindred, at one time one of the most prominent men in Brainerd. Mr. Merritt has for many years been the registrar of Yale college.

The letter follows:

Dear Professor Bakewell:

I am most happy to state a few of the reasons which lead me to support Secretary Hoover for the presidency.

In the first place, I know of no man at present in public life who has displayed such extraordinary vision in dealing with many stupendous and wholly novel problems crucially affecting human welfare. Nor do I know of any man who, possessing idealism like to Hoover's, has also had his power of translating ideals into successful practice. Obviously this means that he is a man of commanding intellectual and moral power.

In the second place, he has enjoyed for many years a type of training which seems to me to fit him beyond any man of his generation for the high responsibilities of the presidency. His first-hand knowledge of both the peoples and the governments of all the great nations will be of inestimable value in his conduct of our foreign affairs; and his intimate acquaintance with the complicated machinery of the federal government will not only spare him months of tedious apprenticeship, through which many of our presidents have to pass, but it will also enable him from the first to make the fullest use of this machinery for the benefit of the nation. Moreover, both his public and his private training have acquainted him with the economic and social problems of our time in a most unusual degree. He knows from direct personal experience the difficulties of the man at the bottom and those of the man at the top. In the same way he knows the farm and the shop, and he knows also the ways of great industrial and financial enterprise.

In the third place, his whole career discloses a man of superlative integrity and character, wholeheartedly devoted to the duty in hand. It is doubtful if any man ever lived through whose hands passed the expenditure of such overwhelming amounts of trust funds; but even in this somewhat turbid campaign no slightest suspicion has ever been voiced of Mr. Hoover's impeccable honor in the discharge of these great obligations. His administration would be characterized by the severest standards of official integrity.

It is said that Mr. Hoover is a poor "mixer" and something of an autocrat, and that he will be unable to work with Congress. This last surmise may prove true. What president has ever been long happy with Congress? But it may well be doubted whether any man among our contemporaries has ever elicited greater loyalty and devotion in the men who work with and under him. While mindful of the established lessons of the past, Mr. Hoover's mind is always open to new and fertile ideas. He is by temperament and training alike wholly democratic in his personal attitudes; a true liberal, although a relentless enemy of the libertinism, which many persons confuse with this.

I dwell upon these personal traits rather than upon purely political principles, for the reason that in respect to many of the most important of them, the members of the two great parties are apparently divided in inextricable confusion, and we are accordingly thrown back upon the personalities of the candidates far more than is usually the case. Moreover, much of that which is most vitally significant in political principle is often reflected in personality more truly than in any sheer verbal formulation of doctrine.

I do not agree with all of Mr. Hoover's political principles, a circumstance which is not strange in view of the fact that I have often voted for democratic candidates for the presidency; but I find myself heartily in accord with those which I consider most important and I regard his election as critically imperative for the best interests of the nation. The high level upon which he has conducted his campaign, free from all bigotry of thought or utterance, from all belittling personalities and from the clap-trap invective which is the stock in trade of many of our candidates, has, I am sure, deeply impressed the country with his single-minded sincerity of purpose and his deep sense of the dignity of the great office he seeks.

Believe me,

Yours very truly,
JAMES R. ANGELL.

THE TWO AMENDMENTS

The constitutional amendment ballot which will be handed out to the voters November 6th has two propositions to vote on. If you fail to vote this ballot, it has the effect to vote against both questions as the law requires a majority of all votes cast.

Amendment No. 1 provides that one-third of the gasoline tax receipts be taken away from the state highway department and given to the 87 counties to be used on state aid roads in the counties. The money would naturally be divided between the 435 commissioner districts in the state and amount to about $3,500 for each district.

While this would be a small amount expended in a district it would deprive the trunk highway fund of $1,800,000—a sum sufficient to pay for paving 72 miles of state highway.

If the voters decide to divert this amount from the state highway fund, one of two things will have to happen. Either the gas tax will have to be raised to provide more money or the state will have to make a bond issue to provide for trunk highway improvements. The state roads are already short of needed funds and taking $1,800,000 from the funds will make other resources necessary.

Amendment No. 2 would do away with the law making a stockholder in a corporation (or bank) subject to double liability and giving the legislature power to fix such liability. Loss of the investment seems hard enough without holding the stockholder to assessment for an amount equal to the original investment. Money thus collected is largely absorbed in expenses and does creditors little good.

Minnesota is said to be the only state in the Union having such a law, and as a result, many Minnesota corporations are organized under the laws of some other states.

Brainerd, Minn.
Nov. 3, 1928

Editor Brainerd Dispatch:

My attention has been directed to a so-called editorial appearing in your paper on October 27th as well as two other editorials on the subject of butter tariffs. The first editorial mentioned is apparently quoted from your customary overworked and unreliable source of political inspiration—the Minneapolis Journal. The caption of the editorial is "Butter and Brass." After reading it I was compelled to the conclusion that the one who wrote it was certainly not lacking in a generous supply of "brass."

You first said the Minnesota farmers received $113,613,474 for butter fat in 1927 and spoke of the gain over 1926. I haven't time to check these figures, so, exercising a little Christian charity, I am taking your word for it. You then say, "What made this gain possible? Republican tariff policy and nothing else. The Democrats, when last they had a chance put milk and cream on the free list, and fixed the butter tariff at only two and one-half cents a pound."

The main complaint with this statement is that it is based upon the usual Republican practice of giving half a truth and hoping the people won't look any further. Why didn't you tell your readers the whole truth, and say to them that under the Democratic tariff of two and one-half cents per pound butter sold for the average price of fifty eight cents a pound in 1921? Why didn't you give them some more of the truth and tell them that when the Republican congress in 1922 raised the tariff to eight cents a pound butter sold that year for the average price of thirty nine cents per pound—a drop of nineteen cents? Evidently because the figures would make your editorial what it is—an absurdity in the face of actual, proven figures. Let's go further. In 1926 a Republican congress raised the tariff to twelve cents a pound. Butter sold that year for the average price of a fraction better than thirty eight cents a pound.

Also, don't forget that if your Republican argument as to high tariff is logical, you are endeavoring to convince the labor of our city to support a party that has for its god a high tariff policy that is a direct slap at our citizens who buy but who do not sell these things. Also, be remembered, that these increases in tariff of which you speak, were made in the winter when the great bulk of butter was in the hands of the speculators and out of the hands of the farmers. To illustrate: in December 1926, when the bulk of the butter was in cold storage the price jumped to fifty three cents a pound. More typical Republican aid to agriculture!

Butter calls to mind eggs, another important source of income for the Minnesota farmer. Tell your readers what Republican tariff policies did to eggs. Tell them the truth, and say that under the Democratic tariff fifteen million eggs were imported in 1916. And then tell them that under the Republican tariff there were thirty five million eggs imported in 1926.

The rule seems to be: if we want to make votes with tariff talk—don't give the figures.

What are the new models in motor-cars? The advertisements tell you, before you go to the auto show. What's the best show in town? What's the newest in hats and shoes and golf-togs? Nor do I know of any man who, possessing idealism like to Hoover's, has also had his power of translating ideals into successful practice. Obviously this means that he is a man of commanding intellectual and moral power.

In the second place, he has enjoyed for many years a type of training which seems to me to fit him beyond any man of his generation for the high responsibilities of the presidency. His first-hand knowledge of both the peoples and the governments of all the great nations will be of inestimable value in his conduct of our foreign affairs; and his intimate acquaintance with the complicated machinery of the federal government will not only spare him months of tedious apprenticeship, through which many of our presidents have to pass, but it will also enable him from the first to make the fullest use of this machinery for the benefit of the nation. Moreover, both his public and his private training have acquainted him with the economic and social problems of our time in a most unusual degree. He knows from direct personal experience the difficulties of the man at the bottom and those of the man at the top. In the same way he knows the farm and the shop, and he knows also the ways of great industrial and financial enterprise.

In the third place, his whole career discloses a man of superlative integrity and character, wholeheartedly devoted to the duty in hand. It is doubtful if any man ever lived through whose hands passed the expenditure of such overwhelming amounts of trust funds; but even in this somewhat turbid campaign no slightest suspicion has ever been voiced of Mr. Hoover's impeccable honor in the discharge of these great obligations. His administration would be characterized by the severest standards of official integrity.

It is said that Mr. Hoover is a poor "mixer" and something of an autocrat, and that he will be unable to work with Congress. This last surmise may prove true. What president has ever been long happy with Congress? But it may well be doubted whether any man among our contemporaries has ever elicited greater loyalty and devotion in the men who work with and under him. While mindful of the established lessons of the past, Mr. Hoover's mind is always open to new and fertile ideas. He is by temperament and training alike wholly democratic in his personal attitudes; a true liberal, although a relentless enemy of the libertinism, which many persons confuse with this.

I dwell upon these personal traits rather than upon purely political principles, for the reason that in respect to many of the most important of them, the members of the two great parties are apparently divided in inextricable confusion, and we are accordingly thrown back upon the personalities of the candidates far more than is usually the case. Moreover, much of that which is most vitally significant in political principle is often reflected in personality more truly than in any sheer verbal formulation of doctrine.

I do not agree with all of Mr. Hoover's political principles, a circumstance which is not strange in view of the fact that I have often voted for democratic candidates for the presidency; but I find myself heartily in accord with those which I consider most important and I regard his election as critically imperative for the best interests of the nation. The high level upon which he has conducted his campaign, free from all bigotry of thought or utterance, from all belittling personalities and from the clap-trap invective which is the stock in trade of many of our candidates, has, I am sure, deeply impressed the country with his single-minded sincerity of purpose and his deep sense of the dignity of the great office he seeks.

Believe me,

Yours very truly,
JAMES R. ANGELL.

THE TWO AMENDMENTS

THE constitutional amendment ballot which will be handed out to the voters November 6th has two propositions to vote on. If you fail to vote this ballot, it has the effect to vote against both questions as the law requires a majority of all votes cast:

Amendment No. 1 provides that one-third of the gasoline tax receipts be taken away from the state highway department and given to the 87 counties to be used on state aid roads in the counties. The money would naturally be divided between the 435 commissioner districts in the state and amount to about $3,500 for each district.

While this would be a small amount expended in a district it would deprive the trunk highway fund of $1,800,000—a sum sufficient to pay for paving 72 miles of state highway.

If the voters decide to divert this amount from the state highway fund, one of two things will have to happen. Either the gas tax will have to be raised to provide more money or the state will have to make a bond issue to provide for trunk highway improvements. The state roads are already short of needed funds and taking $1,800,000 from the funds will make other resources necessary.

Amendment No. 2 would do away with the law making a stockholder in a corporation (or bank) subject to double liability and giving the legislature power to fix such liability. Loss of the investment seems hard enough without holding the stockholder to assessment for an amount equal to the original investment. Money thus collected is largely absorbed in expenses and does creditors little good.

Minnesota is said to be the only state in the Union having such a law, and as a result, many Minnesota corporations are organized under the laws of some other states.

Brainerd, Minn.

Editor Brainerd Dispatch:

My attention has been directed to a so-called editorial appearing in your paper on October 27th as well as two other editorials on the subject of butter tariffs. The first editorial mentioned is apparently quoted from your customary overworked and unreliable source of political inspiration—the Minneapolis Journal. The caption of the editorial is "Butter and Brass." After reading it I was compelled to the conclusion that the one who wrote it was certainly not lacking in a generous supply of "brass."

You first said the Minnesota farmers received $113,613,474 for butter fat in 1927 and spoke of the gain over 1926. I haven't time to check these figures, so, exercising a little Christian charity, I am taking your word for it. You then say, "What made this gain possible? Republican tariff policy and nothing else. The Democrats, when last they had a chance put milk and cream on the free list, and fixed the butter tariff at only two and one-half cents a pound."

The main complaint with this statement is that it is based upon the usual Republican practice of giving half a truth and hoping the people won't look any further. Why didn't you tell your readers the whole truth, and say to them that under the Democratic tariff of two and one-half cents per pound butter sold for the average price of fifty eight cents a pound in 1921? Why didn't you give them some more of the truth and tell them that when the Republican congress in 1922 raised the tariff to eight cents a pound butter sold that year for the average price of thirty nine cents per pound—a drop of nineteen cents? Evidently because the figures would make your editorial what it is—an absurdity in the face of actual, proven figures. Let's go further. In 1926 a Republican congress raised the tariff to twelve cents a pound. Butter sold that year for the average price of a fraction better than thirty eight cents a pound.

Also, don't forget that if your Republican argument as to high tariff is logical, you are endeavoring to convince the labor of our city to support a party that has for its god a high tariff policy that is a direct slap at our citizens who buy but who do not sell these things. Also, be it remembered, that these increases in tariff of which you speak, were made in the winter when the great bulk of butter was in the hands of the speculators and out of the hands of the farmers. To illustrate: in December 1926, when the bulk of the butter was in cold storage the price jumped to fifty three cents a pound. More typical Republican aid to agriculture!

Butter calls to mind eggs, another important source of income for the Minnesota farmer. Tell your readers what Republican tariff policies did to eggs. Tell them the truth, and say that under the Democratic tariff fifteen million eggs were imported in 1916. And then tell them that under the Republican tariff there were thirty five million eggs imported in 1926.

The rule seems to be: if we want to make votes with tariff talk—don't give the figures.

Dr. Boe declared that although he had intended to vote for Herbert Hoover and Nelson, McBride's last minute action had driven him into the camp of Shipstead.

TRADITION OF GRIDIRON SUSTAINS THEM

TODAY'S STRUGGLE TO BE CLASH BETWEEN 2 BEATEN AND BRUISED ELEPHANTS

A BATTLE BETWEEN SCORING MACHINES WHICH HAVE FAILED DEFENSIVELY

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 3.—(UP)—

A tradition of the gridiron which ascribes to Yale football teams the right to victory over Dartmouth went a long way towards sustaining the hopes of Eli enthusiasts today.

Never since Yale and Dartmouth began football relations have the Indians gone away from New Haven with a bulldog scalp at their belts. Today's game will be a struggle between two beaten and bruised elephants, a battle of scoring machines which have failed defensively.

Earlier this season, Al Marsters and Johnny Garvey, ballcarriers for Dartmouth and Yale respectively, were rated as the two best backs in the east. Neither is in shape for today's game.

There is little to choose between the contestants in the matter of condition. The Yale team emerged badly crippled from the conflict with the Army last week; Dartmouth found Harvard too strenuous an opponent.

It is quite possible that when the conflict in Yale bowl reaches its height, cripples on both sides will fling away their crutches and leap frantically into the fray. For the moment, however, the probable line-ups are as follows:

Yale—Walker, le; Marting, lt; Greene, lg; Charlesworth, c; Stewart, rt; Eddy, rt; McEwen, re; Ellis, qb; Switz, lb; Dunn, rh; Decker, fb. Dartmouth—Meginnes, le; Cole, lt; Cyle, lg; Anders, c; Sherman, rg; Armstrong, rt; Stokes, re; Harris, qb; Reed, lb; George, rh; Hutton, lb.

Referee: J. E. Keenen (Pittsfield); umpire: A. Whitley (Colgate); head linesman: A. K. Tyler (Princeton); field judge: J. E. Kithley (Illinois).

TY COBB AND TRIS SPEAKER TO LEAVE ATHLETICS

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Two of baseball's greatest figures are going to go the way of all veterans who have seen their best day, it was revealed today when Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, announced he had asked waivers on Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker.

It is expected that all clubs will waive and that Cobb will retire from the game while Speaker may purchase a minor league club or manage a major league team. Mack also has asked waivers on Joe Bush, veteran pitcher.

Age struck at the two stars in different places—It got Cobb's legs and dimmed Speaker's eyes. Last year Mack was forced to bench Cobb for Hass, a youngster, in order to add speed to his outfield. Speaker slumped so badly at bat that he became a dead weight in the batting order.

Speaker has seen his principal service in three major league cities—Boston, Cleveland and Philadelphia. At Boston he was the brightest star in the brilliant Red Sox outfield. At Cleveland Speaker was named manager and piloted the Indians to a world championship.

Rumors say Speaker, considered the greatest ball hawk who ever lived, may go back to Boston to manage the Red Sox.

AL MARSTERS
SURE FOOTED HALF-BACK WHO IS AGAIN MAKING GOOD AS A GROUND GAINER AT DARTMOUTH THIS FALL.

ALTHOUGH ONLY A SOFT LAST SEASON THE HANOVER ANTELOPE WON A PLACE ON THE ALL-AMERICAN 2nd TEAM IN '27 AND HE'S APT TO GRADUATE INTO THE REAL LEAGUE THIS YEAR.

TOTAL YARDAGE FOR ONE SEASON

By QUINN HALL.
WHEN Yale faces Dartmouth in the Bowl at New Haven this afternoon, it's a safe bet to assume that there will be a lot of Yale eyes centered on Al Marsters, the Hanover Antelope, who is again making great progress as a ground gainer for the Green machine this Fall.

Marsters, you may recall, is the youngster who broke into big print last Fall, when, playing as a sophomore at Dartmouth, he broke all marks which have been set for total yards gained during any one season. In doing this he shattered the records of such well-known pigskin carriers as Red Grange, the Gallowing Ghost, and Morley Drury, the blue streak of the Pacific Coast.

In this respect it is interesting to wonder about the record of Jim Thorpe. The Indian was famous in his day as a wrecker of hopes but no statistics of his total yardage for any single season are available. Nevertheless, it is doubtful if he ever broke away for as many long runs as are credited to the Antelope last year.

Marsters' record last Fall and his playing so far this season lead up naturally to a comparison of the ability of various players as open field runners but the Dartmouth rooters, at least, are convinced that Marsters stands out as the best of this type in the country. Before the season is over some new and spectacular performers may be brought to light but in the meantime it seems that the Hanover Antelope has a good foundation for their contention.

On the gridiron Marsters is a hip slithering will-o'-the-wisp who has a decided aversion to tacklers. Two or more may bring him down if they both hit him at the same time, but he seems to avoid single tacklers like a puddle-hopper shuns the damp spots on the pavement.

The Dartmouth coach, Jess Hawley, is too wise a bird to build his entire offense around one man—even a Marsters—and the Green attack, as a consequence, is always well balanced, but it is not letting any secrets out of the bag to say that when there are valuable yards to gain Marsters will gain them. At least Al will be tossed into the thick of the fight to do his darndest and the past records show that he customarily makes good in the pinches and elsewhere.

While the Dartmouth team is young this Fall, it is exceptionally strong. Being composed of fast, good timber it is sure to cause plenty of damage. The Green schedule from the start was not any bed of roses.

Last year Yale smothered Dartmouth to the tune of 17 to 0 and today the Green machine with Marsters operating in the key position will be out fighting to avenge that defeat.

A week from today Dartmouth meets Brown and they'll have nothing to avenge in that struggle as they walked away with a 19-7 victory last Fall.

On Nov. 17, Dartmouth will square off against Cornell. In the annual tussle with the Ithaca last season the Hanover warriors walked through for a touchdown after touchdown and the final count of 52-7 was one of the worst defeats Cornell has suffered in years.

The Dartmouth season comes to a close on November 24, when the Hanoverites journey to Chicago to pair up with Northwestern University. This game should be something to witness, and it will give the fans of the Middle West an opportunity to judge at first hand the ground-gaining ability of the Dartmouth star, Al Marsters.

However, that's pretty far in the distance, and the folks who are watching Marsters are a lot more interested right now in what he'll do in the Yale Bowl at New Haven today.

And that ought to be plenty—if he ever gets by that Yale forward wall.

TRADITION OF GRIDIRON SUSTAINS THEM

TODAY'S STRUGGLE TO BE CLASH BETWEEN 2 BEATEN AND BRUISED ELEPHANTS

A BATTLE BETWEEN SCORING MACHINES WHICH HAVE FAILED DEFENSIVELY

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 3.—(UP)—A tradition of the gridiron which ascribes to Yale football teams the right to victory over Dartmouth went a long way towards sustaining the hopes of Eli enthusiasts today.

Never since Yale and Dartmouth began football relations have the Indians gone away from New Haven with a bulldog scalp at their belts.

Today's game will be a struggle between two beaten and bruised elephants, a battle of scoring machines which have failed defensively.

Earlier this season, Al Marsters and Johnny Garvey, ballcarriers for Dartmouth and Yale respectively, were rated as the two best backs in the east. Neither is in shape for today's game.

There is little to choose between the contestants in the matter of condition. The Yale team emerged badly crippled from the conflict with the Army last week; Dartmouth found Harvard too strenuous an opponent.

It is quite possible that when the conflict in Yale bowl reaches its height, cripples on both sides will fling away their crutches and leap frantically into the fray. For the moment, however, the probable line-ups are as follows:

Yale—Walker, le; Marting, lt; Greene, lg; Charlesworth, c; Stewart, rg; Eddy, rt; McEwen, re; Ellis, qb; Switz, lb; Dunn, rh; Decker, fb.

Dartmouth—Meginnes, le; Cole, lt; Cyle, lg; Anders, c; Sherman, rg; Armstrong, rt; Stokes, re; Harris, qb; Reed, lb; George, rh; Hutton, lb.

Referee: J. E. Keenen (Pittsfield); umpire: A. Whistley (Colgate); head linesman: A. K. Tyler (Princeton); field judge: J. E. Kithley (Illinois).

TY COBB AND TRIS SPEAKER TO LEAVE ATHLETICS

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Two of baseball's greatest figures are going to go the way of all veterans who have seen their best day, it was revealed today when Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, announced he had asked waivers on Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker.

It is expected that all clubs will waive and that Cobb will retire from the game while Speaker may purchase a minor league club or manage a major league team. Mack also has asked waivers on Joe Bush, veteran pitcher.

Age struck at the two stars in different places—it got Cobb's legs and dimmed Speaker's eyes. Last year Mack was forced to bench Cobb for Hass, a youngster, in order to add speed to his outfield. Speaker slumped so badly at bat that he became a dead weight in the batting order.

Speaker has seen his principal service in three major league cities—Boston, Cleveland and Philadelphia. At Boston he was the brightest star in the Brilliant Red Sox outfield. At Cleveland Speaker was named manager and piloted the Indians to a world championship.

Rumors say Speaker, considered the greatest ball hawk who ever lived, may go back to Boston to manage the Red Sox.

RENE DE VOS IN DECISION OVER SHADE

CALIFORNIA FIGHTER DEFEATED IN 10-ROUND BOUT AT CHICAGO COLISEUM

BOUT BILLED AS ELIMINATION CONTEST, WINNER TO MEET MICKY WALKER

Chicago, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Rene De Vos, middleweight champion of Belgium, took the decision over Dave Shade, California fighter, in a ten-round bout in the Coliseum here last night.

The bout was billed as an elimination contest, the winner to meet Micky Walker for the 160-pound title.

The fight was fairly close, De Vos being the better boxer. Shade tried to play the killer but failed to penetrate De Vos' defense to inflict any damage.

SURE FOOTED HALF-BACK WHO IS AGAIN MAKING GOOD AS A GROUND GAINER AT DARTMOUTH THIS FALL.

By QUINN HALL.

WHEN Yale faces Dartmouth in the Bowl at New Haven this afternoon, it's a safe bet to assume that there will be a lot of Yale eyes centered on Al Marsters, the Hanover Antelope, who is again making great progress as a ground gainer for the Green machine this fall.

Marsters, you may recall, is the youngster who broke into big print last fall, when, playing as a sophomore at Dartmouth, he broke all marks which have been set for total yards gained during any one season. In doing this he shattered the records of such well-known pigskin carriers as Red Grange, the Galloping Ghost, and Morley Drury, the blue streak of the Pacific Coast.

In this respect it is interesting to wonder about the record of Jim Thorpe. The Indian was famous in his day as a wrecker of hopes but no statistics of his total yardage for any single season are available. Nevertheless, it is doubtful if he ever broke away for as many long runs as are credited to the Antelope last year.

Marsters' record last fall and his playing so far this season lead up naturally to a comparison of the ability of various players as open field runners but the Dartmouth rooters, at least, are convinced that Marsters stands out as the best of this type in the country. Before the season is over some new and spectacular performers may be brought to light but in the meantime it seems that the Hanover fans have a good foundation for their contention.

On the gridiron Marsters is a hip slithering will-o'-the-wisp who has a decided aversion to tacklers. Two or more may bring him down if they both hit him at the same time, but he seems to avoid single tacklers like a prairie-hopper shuns the damp spots on the pavement.

The Dartmouth coach, Jess Hawley, is too wise a bird to build his entire offense around one man—even a Marsters—and the Green attack, as a consequence, is always well balanced, but it is not letting any secrets out of the bag to say that when there are valuable yards to gain Marsters will gain them. At least Al will be tossed into the thick of the fight to do his darndest and the past records show that he customarily makes good in the pinches and elsewhere.

While the Dartmouth team is young this fall, it is exceptionally strong. Being composed of fast, good timber it is sure to cause plenty of damage. The Green schedule from the start was not any bed of roses.

Last year Yale smothered Dartmouth to the tune of 17 to 0 and today the Green machine with Marsters operating in the key position will be out fighting to avenge that defeat.

A week from today Dartmouth meets Brown and they'll have nothing to avenge in that struggle as they walked away with a 19-7 victory last fall.

On Nov. 17, Dartmouth will square off against Cornell. In the annual tussle with the Ithacans last season the Hanover warriors walked through for a touchdown after touchdown and the final count of 53-7 was one of the worst defeats Cornell has suffered in years.

The Dartmouth season comes to a close on November 24, when the Hanoverites journey to Chicago to pair up with Northwestern University. This game should be something to witness, and it will give the fans of the Middle West an opportunity to judge at first hand the ground-gaining ability of the Dartmouth star, Al Marsters.

However, that's pretty far in the distance, and the folks who are watching Marsters are a lot more interested right now in what he'll do in the Yale Bowl at New Haven today.

And that ought to be plenty—if he ever gets by that Yale forward wall.

POLITICS ON THE AIR

New York, Nov. 3.—(UP)—The democratic rally at Madison Square Garden which will climax Gov. Alfred E. Smith's campaign for the presidency will be broadcast almost in its entirety tonight. A coast-to-coast network of the National Broadcasting company will put Smith's speech on the air.
The opening feature of the Madison Square Garden program, an hour address by Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic candidate to succeed Smith as governor of New York, will be broadcast over WEAF, WGY and WGR from 8 to 9 p. m., eastern time.
The next hour of the rally will be broadcast by WHN of New York. When Smith starts his address at 10 p. m., there will be 35 stations in the N. B. C. network.

At 11 p. m. eastern time, individual stations on the Smith network will present local democratic campaign talks.

Stations in the Smith network will be WJZ, WBZ, WBZA, WBAL, WJR, WLW, WTAM, KYW, KWK, WJAR, WRC, WGR, WEBC, KPO, KGO, KFI, KGW, KOMO, KHO, KVOO, KPRC, WOAI, KOA, WTMJ, WCCO, WBT, WHAS, WSM, WMC, WHAM, KDKA, WREN, WFAA, WSB and KSL.

Three republican campaign speeches will occupy an hour and a half of radio network time when addresses by Senator William E. Borah, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur and A. F. Whitney are broadcast.

Borah will speak over a national network of N. B. C. stations from Utica, N. Y., beginning at 9 p. m. eastern time, just prior to Smith's speech. Wilbur, who is president of Leland Stanford university, Herbert Hoover's alma mater, will speak on a special republican program over a network of 21 stations from 8:30 to 9 p. m. eastern time.

Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, will talk over the Columbia system from 9:30 to 10 p. m. eastern time.
KOA at Denver will be the only radio stations to broadcast Herbert Hoover's short talk at Pueblo, Colo., tonight, republican national headquarters announced today.

Where "Love Torture" Occurred

Sheriff Doolittle, of Lake county, Ill., is shown inspecting the furnace in which beautiful Elfrieda Knaak, 30-year-old school teacher, is alleged to have tortured herself by burning. Inset, Miss Knaak, who died from the burns.

Ahoy, Friedrichshafen!

In Columbus' day it was, "land!" "land!" "land!" but now it's "Ahoy, Landing!" as the big trans-Atlantic dirigible hovers over her destination. Here is photo of the Graf Zeppelin preparing to come down from her last test flight at Friedrichshafen, Germany, a scene which was repeated as the big airner finished her remarkable homeward flight. YOUNG VOTERS DAY OPENS AT LUNCHEON

Over 100 Receive Hospitable Greeting at Noon Day Gathering

SPEECHES AND SONGS

Free Dance Sponsored Tonight for Young Voters in Finnish Hall

Brainerd, "Young Voters Day" started out in a highly successful manner at noon today when more than 100 young people turned out to the luncheon in the republican headquarters, sang election songs and listened to two interesting speeches by Mrs. Freeman Gordon, of Minneapolis and Walter F. Wieland, assistant attorney general of Minnesota.

The hospitality that stood out paramount in the noon meeting will be further extended to young voters of the city and country at the dance this evening in the Finnish hall, Southeast Brainerd.

"Arthur Nelson, the man of action, of trust, is the one you can cast your vote for conscientiously for U. S. senator at the election next Tuesday," said Walter F. Wieland as he concluded his address.

He credited Shipstead with the work he has accomplished while in office but stated that the situation which placed Shipstead in the position to accomplish such work would not repeat itself in a generation. For that reason he urged voters to cast their ballots for Nelson who would back Hoover if elected.

To emphasize the unbiased opinion of one concerning the humane character of Herbert Hoover, Mr. Wieland quoted from Senator Robinson's speech at Little Rock, Arkansas in 1927 when praise was given Hoover for the work he accomplished in flood relief. The quotation in part read: "We have not forgotten and will never forget the human touch and friendly sympathy displayed by Hoover in the times of strain and need."

"It is inspiring to see meetings of this kind and the interest displayed in issues confronting the people in electing men to positions of trust in the United States," said Mr. Wieland. "both candidates are self made men and have much to be admired by the people of the United States. However, it is a known fact that Smith carried only four counties in New York during his last election. Hoover's life is an example of success. Only through long hard training was he fitted for the position he held in the Belgian relief work. He is an American who stands today favorably in the eyes of the people abroad because of the great work the relief corps did under him."

Mr. Wieland reviewed the life and accomplishments of Hoover and followed with a review of the success Arthur Nelson has already attained. Mrs. Freeman Gordon emphasized Hoover's stand on tariff, immigration, farm relief and prohibition.

"Mr. Hoover is a friend of the farmer. He is a friend of labor. He is a great engineer, it having been said 'he has surveyed the world.' We want continuance of prosperity in America by continuance of prohibition. English statesmen have lauded Hoover as the greatest man internationally the United States has today," said Mrs. Gordon.

"When electing Hoover we must not tie his hands. Vote the straight republican ticket and see that he receives the cooperation required. I cannot recommend Arthur E. Nelson too highly for the U. S. senate. He is 100 percent back of Hoover," Mrs. Gordon said in conclusion.

Tonight's dance in the Finnish hall will be free. The Northern Serenaders will furnish the music. Speeches will be given by Walter F. Wieland, U. S. Court Commissioner A. D. Poik and Attorney Hilding Swanson. Attorney William J. Swanson will introduce the speakers.

Gibbons received a hearty greeting of applause when he was introduced to the dancers by Michael Barrett and as equal a volume of applause was accorded the former ring man at the close of his talk.

"I have been accustomed to talking more with my hands, but I want to say that St. Paul is 100 percent back of Smith," said Tommy.

The hall was decorated with streamers of purple, white, and red with Al Smith's pictures prominent.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JERRY DUNN, star reporter on a large newspaper, covers a garden fete given by Spencer Hayden, a millionaire. There he meets Ann Tremaine, debutante daughter of a wealthy banker, who is engaged to marry Hector Richards, whom she does not love. She becomes interested in Dunn, who is different from the men she has always known, and when he asks her to direct him to Mr. Hayden, she pretends she is a poor girl who has crashed the party. They leave the party and sit talking on a bench nearby. Dunn rails against the idle rich and his ideas stir Ann. She confesses that she belongs to the class he hates. Dunn is shocked, but admits if they belonged to the same social group he could fall in love with her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VI.

JERRY DUNN'S scoffing at her society friends did not arouse in her any resentment against him. All that he said about them was true, except in a few isolated cases. Dunn, she recognized, was mentally their superior. It was his mind that attracted her to him; he stimulated her, challenged her, like a cold raw wind.

But her interest in him seemed to be entirely mental. He had said that she "clicked" with him, that but for her enmeshment in social life he could easily be crazy about her. No similar feeling for him, however, stirred in her breast. Because he was different from the men of her crowd he did possess a certain glamorous interest, but there was not the faintest throb of any electric symptom of a crush. If he had any personal—physical—magnetism it had not registered, so far.

"I know what you say is true," she told him. "The life I lead is all silk and velvet and each year I'll sink deeper and deeper into the softness. I'd like to escape the empty laziness of it all, but what can I do? It's too cheap and common to go hunting thrills, just from boredom. And why should I take a job and work to earn a little money when I already have enough money? I think also I ought to consider the feelings of my parents—what's the good shocking them and hurting them? No—it looks like I'm trapped."

Jerry ignored surface politeness. "Maybe, you don't get out of it because there's something soft inside you. Maybe you're a born parasite. In that case it doesn't matter. You can't claim any credit for a few feeble glimmers of dissatisfaction."

Ann felt her face start to tingle. She was not used to criticism. Between them a wall was beginning to rise.

"I think," she said, with a tinge of coldness, "I'll go back with the rest of the parasites. This has been very pleasant and you've been very frank, Mr. Dunn."

She rose and Jerry walked with her the short distance back to the Spencer Hayden's gate. Her slight coolness reached him.

"The quickest way to lose a friend," he said, "is to discover something not flattering—and speak of it. I've offended you, haven't I?"

"By telling me the truth?" Ann laughed a little. "Not at all. Nevertheless she was hurt."

"Before we tell each other goodbye," Jerry said slowly, "I want to say this: I think you're a darn fine girl and maybe some day you'll need a friend. Most people do, some time or other. If there's ever anything I can do for you, I wish you'd let me know. Promise?"

Ann promised and they parted with a brief clasp of the hands. He had not asked to see her again and she admired him because he disdained, unlike most males, to take up the eternal pursuit.

As she passed through the side gate and re-entered the grounds it was symbolic; she was going back to everything that engulfed her. With Jerry Dunn for a few minutes she had sniffed freedom, but she hadn't known how to accept it and he hadn't been able to show her.

Back to the company of Hector Richards, the nice, dull boy she was engaged to marry. She came upon him standing a little apart from the audience watching the Shakespearean pageant; several other young chaps were chatting with him, and, apparently, he hadn't noticed her absence.

She stood in the shadow of a tree and looked at him, wondering why she didn't love him. He was comely, slender, a young bachelor with good features and a contented eye. About Jerry Dunn had been the suggestion of something haggard, but Hector was as self-sufficient as a banker—which was what he was. Both their fathers were bank presidents and their businesses interlocked. Hector loved her, of course; but he was very, very sure of her. And he considered her an intelligent girl for accepting him. There was not much silliness about Hector; he had responded but slightly to the jazz age, and then only because it seemed the thing to do. But he was all right, solid... substantial.

Someone had come up beside her and she was aware of a subtle pleasure at his coming. Tom Garson, with a tanned, alert face that had a sort of hawk-like boldness, certainly was deliciously the reverse of Hector. He was reputed to be a devil with women and it was certain that he had once been married to and divorced by a French countess—a record that naturally made him a somewhat fascinating ornament in Ann's social set.

"I don't blame you, my dear, for standing off," he said. "It's a pretty bad show, isn't it?"

They both smiled at the Shakespearean amateurs. "I haven't been enduring any of it at all," Ann admitted. "Have you?"

"Not a bit. I don't know why I let myself in for this sort of thing, when there are so many more interesting things to do—on a night like this."

"As for instance?" Ann asked, her eyes sparkling with a light audacity.

The tanned hawk-like face became even more alert. A creature of instinct, he had quickly sensed the strangeness of Ann's mood. Remotely, there was something of the cruel taloned bird of prey.

"Can you stand a little frankness?"

"Perhaps—try me." Anything, unsettled as she was, was better than joining Hector.

"After a man endures all this flatness for too long his soul rises up in revolt," Tom Garson said. "I'd like to go adventuring to-night—with you. Lord, if only we were in Paris! I never felt so alone and lonesome in my life. I'd like to go on a quest with you tonight—leave all this behind and go a-hunting."

"Hunting for what?"

"For whatever the Fates decree."

Whatever the Fates decreed! Ann looked for a moment into his deep eyes with their odd lights... he was so different from Hector... different from Jerry Dunn... did he hold the answer, or any fraction of it, to the distress of her spirit? Something like quicksilver began to run in her blood.

"For heaven's sake, don't let's stand here talking about it," she said. "Let's go!"

Kissed Zeppelin Her

Friends dared Doris Horwitz, of New York, to kiss Knut Eckener, son of Germany's "iron chancellor of the air," when she visited the big 'drome at Lakehurst, N. J., and thereby caused her to become the heroine of a pretty little side episode as the Graf Zeppelin was being readied for trans-Atlantic trip. For Knut, Jr., undaunted, took pretty Doris in his two big hands, planted a large smack upon her lips and smilingly told her goodbye.

Peaks of Desire

by Kane O Day

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JERRY DUNN, star reporter on a large newspaper, covers a garden fete given by Spencer Hayden, a millionaire. There he meets Ann Tremaine, debutante daughter of a wealthy banker, who is engaged to marry Hector Richards, whom she does not love. She becomes interested in Dunn, who is different from the men she has always known, and when he asks her to direct him to Mr. Hayden, she pretends she is a poor girl who has crashed the party. They leave the party and sit talking on a bench nearby. Dunn rails against the idle rich and his ideas stir Ann. She confesses that she belongs to the class he hates. Dunn is shocked, but admits if they belonged to the same social group he could fall in love with her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VI.

JERRY DUNN'S scoffing at her society friends did not arouse in her any resentment against him. All that he said about them was true, except in a few isolated cases. Dunn, she recognized, was mentally their superior. It was his mind that attracted her to him; he stimulated her, challenged her, like a cold raw wind.

But her interest in him seemed to be entirely mental. He had said that she "clicked" with him, that but for her enmeshment in social life he could easily be crazy about her. No similar feeling for him, however, stirred in her breast. Because he was different from the men of her crowd he did possess a certain glamorous interest, but there was not the faintest throb of any electric symptom of a crush. If he had any personal—physical—magnetism it had not registered, so far.

"I know what you say is true," she told him. "The life I lead is all silk and velvet and each year I'll sink deeper and deeper into the softness. I'd like to escape the empty laziness of it all, but what can I do? It's too cheap and common to go hunting thrills, just from boredom. And why should I take a job and work to earn a little money when I already have enough money? I think also I ought to consider the feelings of my parents—what's the good shocking them and hurting them? No—it looks like I'm trapped."

Jerry ignored surface politeness. "Maybe, you don't get out of it because there's something soft inside you. Maybe you're a born parasite. In that case it doesn't matter. You can't claim any credit for a few feeble glimmers of dissatisfaction."

Ann felt her face start to tingle. She was not used to criticism. Between them a wall was beginning to rise.

"I think," she said, with a tinge of coldness, "I'll go back with the rest of the parasites. This has been very pleasant and you've

Ann promised and they parted with a brief clasp of the hands. He had not asked to see her again and she admired him because he disdained, unlike most males, to take up the eternal pursuit.

Kissed Zeppelin Her

Friends dared Doris Horwitz, of New York, to kiss Knut Eckener, son of Germany's "iron chancellor of the air," when she visited the big "drome" at Lakehurst, N. J., and thereby caused her to become the heroine of a pretty little side episode as the Graf Zeppelin was being readied for trans-Atlantic trip. For Knut, Jr., undaunted, took pretty Doris in his two big hands, planted a large smack upon her lips and smilingly told her good-bye.
